

Tardy Policy

Nacogdoches High School 2018-19

Accumulated by Semester

Nacogdoches High School tardy policy is effective for each class the student attends. Students will be issued a written notice in each instance they are tardy. Students have a five-minute passing period between classes. There is also a warning bell at the four-minute mark. A tardy is defined as when the student does not cross the marked threshold of the classroom door before the tardy bell rings.

When a student has a legitimate reason to be late to class (being called to the office, visiting the nurse's office, etc.), the student is required to have a time-stamped individualized written pass or a teacher-issued classroom pass on their person.

In cases of repeated tardiness, a student-administrator conference will be held, parents/guardians will be notified, and/or student will be assigned disciplinary consequences in the form of lunch detention, after-school detention, Saturday detention, In-School Suspension, etc. It is the students' responsibility to keep track of their tardies and respective consequences.
